The knowledge of NGOs, CBOs and Corporates will also be utilized in improving the infrastructure as well as quality of education. The resources under SSA and RMSA program shall be utilized fully and effectively and in a transparent manner.

It is observed that though schools are provided grants under SSA and RMSA, many schools as on today do not have television facilities though number of lessons are being telecasted through MANA TV. Timely utilization of funds will ensure better grants from Govt. of India.

Success lies in creating awareness among parents about importance of education and highlighting the benefits being provided by the Govt. to take this education to their door step. Awareness shall also be created about the mid-day-meal programme. It is established that many of the children are not utilizing the mid-day-meal as food is not tasty and not being served hot. The local community and School Management Committees should be made active in effective supervising of mid-day-meal benefit being availed by all the children.

The supervisory officers in Education Department like., MEOs, Dy.EOs, DEOs need to visit schools on regular basis to ensure that academic calendar is followed and syllabus is completed as per time line. Children enrolled should be retained and drop outs arrested fully. The performance of the children in various aspects should be reviewed and monitored. It is revealed in many Annual Status of Education Report (ASER) and State Level Achievement Survey 2014 (SLAS) the learning levels of the children in Govt. Schools is far from satisfactory. There is a need for making concerted efforts for ensuring effective academic monitoring of schools in order to improve learning level of students in all classes.

The involvement of all other departmental officers as a part of “Janmabhoomi-Maa vooru” is expected to motivate parents to send children to school, especially girl children.
